Research expertise areas (REAs) with specific expertise and roles of key professors

In the RA, researchers representing three thematically connected REAs provide together the specific top-level expertise needed to fulfill the strategic goals of the RA and implement successfully the research in four work packages (WPs), which are connected to each other. The specific expertise, roles of key professors working in different REAs are described below:

REA 1: Responses and acclimation mechanisms of terrestrial plants to changing environment

Prof. Riitta Julkunen-Tiitto, Department of Environmental and Biological Sciences, is expert on responses and acclimation mechanisms of coniferous species (Norway spruce and Scots pine) to changing environment (contribute to WPs 1 and 2, coordinator of WP2). Prof. Elina Oksanen, Department of Environmental and Biological Sciences, is expert on responses and acclimation mechanisms of Betula species to warming climate with increasing multiple abiotic and biotic stresses (WPs 1-3). Prof. Jarmo Holopainen, Department of Environmental and Biological Sciences, is expert on biogenic volatile organic compound (BVOC) responses of boreal tree species to changing abiotic environment and herbivore stress (WP2).

REA 2: Dynamics and management of boreal forest ecosystems

Prof. Heli Peltola, School of Forest Sciences, is expert on forest ecosystem and risk modelling and sustainable management of boreal forests (upland mineral soils) under changing operative environment (contribute to WPs 1, 2 and 4, coordinator of WP1). Prof. Jari Kouki, School of Forest Sciences, is expert on patterns and processes related to ecosystem changes and services, in particular forest biodiversity (WPs 1 and 2). Prof. Eeva-Stiina Tuittila, School of Forest Sciences, is expert on plant soil interactions and vegetation and carbon dynamics of boreal forests (peatlands) under changing environment (WPs 1, 2 and 4). Prof. Jyrki Kangas is expert on methods and applications of multiple-criteria decision support and on management of multi-functional forestry (WPs 1 and 4).

REA 3: Forest Inventory and Forest Management Planning

Prof. Matti Maltamo, School of Forest Sciences, is expert on forestry applications of airborne laser scanning (contribute to WPs 1 and 3, coordinator of WP3). Prof. Timo Pukkala, School of Forest Sciences, is expert on development of tools for adaptive multifunctional optimization and forest management under changing operative environment (WPs 1, 3 and 4, coordinator of WP4). Prof. Timo Tokola, School of Forest Sciences, is expert on development of new methods and techniques for forest information management and monitoring of bioeconomy activities (WPs 1 and 3).
