

Junior Research Fellowship in Health Economics 2023

The Health Economics Research Group at the Department of Social and Health Management at University of Eastern Finland (UEF) invites early career researchers (PhD students) to apply for the Junior Research Fellowship in Health Economics.

The Junior Research Fellowship is aimed at early career researchers working in the field of health economics. Highly motivated and talented PhD students are invited to apply. Preference will be given to those applicants who are close to completion of their PhD and share a common research interest with the Research Group.

Fellow is given the opportunity to collaborate with our Health Economics Research Group. Our research focuses on health and social care decision-making and its consequences on efficient and equitable allocation of resources in health and social care. Through our research activities, our aim is to promote well-being in the society and economic and social sustainability. Much of our research activities are related to economic evaluation but we also explore the functioning of the social and health care and pharmaceutical markets, the finance and organization of health and social care, and we conduct research related to various topics in the field of economics of ageing. Learn more about our research at the website Health Economics Research Group.

Fellow will benefit from the research environment at the Department of Social and Health Management in the UEF, Kuopio campus. Fellow will also be introduced to UEF's Effectiveness of Social and Health Services (EFFECTIVENESS) Research Community and can benefit from its services, research environment and wide expertise.

We prefer applicants to visit from March to June or from September to December, and the visit should last roughly 2 months. We will cover accommodation expenses of the fellow and help with practicalities related to the visit.

Early career researchers interested in a scientific collaboration with The Health Economics Research Group in the UEF are asked to apply for the fellowship by 31st January 2023.

Application is required to include:

- 1) Research proposal including dates of potential visit
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Recommendation letter from PhD supervisor
